Experience

2022 - now

Freelancer

Full Stack Developer

The experience is mainly based on the customer's overview of the work done, which at times could lead to some disagreements between the client and the programmer. But over time and after dealing with many customers, I became able to better understand the customer's needs and achieve their goals faster and more effectively.

I learned a lot during that period, from developing my software skills, to improving communication and customer skills. I also learned how to organize and manage my time effectively, work hard to meet customer demands and complete projects in a timely manner
